1-14. (canceled)

15. (previously amended) A decorative container system for displaying items in a hollow region comprising:

a decorative container comprising an upper opening and an inner container positioned within an outer container thereby defining the hollow region therebetween, wherein the outer container is at least partially transparent;

a removable hollow region access member allowing access to the hollow region; and a decorative lid shaped to be removably mounted in the upper opening of the decorative container, the decorative lid defining a hollow lid cavity and being at least partially transparent, the lid further comprising a removable lid access member providing access to the hollow lid cavity, wherein the removable lid access member is replaceable in the decorative lid.

16. (previously presented) The decorative container system of claim 15 wherein the decorative lid further comprises a base portion and a shell that cooperates with the base portion to define the hollow lid cavity, wherein the base portion defines a lid access opening that provides access to the hollow lid cavity, wherein the removable lid access member is mounted in the lid access opening.

17. (previously presented) The decorative container system of claim 16, wherein the transparent shell is dome shaped.
